Temporal Dwelling

Human being takes place in time as much as in space. Recollecting the past, interacting with the present, and anticipating the future are characteristics of that condition. This studio will explore how these modes of being can be actively supported in the design of a weekend house.

Arch 484/584 Fall 2017, Kevin Nute