

From the midterm I've realized that I need to rethink my concept and get a clearer idea of what I want to make. My initial concept was to create a central hub of retail space with residential towers, but I have decided to go beyond that now. With the unique pod system I have, I want to use it but I am still not sure of the scale of it. Going forward with the pods, I want to continue with the different layering aspects to create a more interesting building footprint and also to come up with a façade system that would still work with the pod design. Also coming up with a clearer and more defined concept, it will help refine my whole system. I learned the most from the peer reviews, since I got to talk in more of a conversation with my peers and could explain my thinking, whereas the main review was helpful but it could've been a lot better.
