

JORDAN SCHNITZER MUSEUM OF ART

Visitor Guidelines for Faculty and University Student Tours

Admission to the JSMA is always FREE for students, faculty, and staff at the University of Oregon! Just show your university ID at the admission desk.

A few things to know when visiting the museum:

- If you are not feeling well, please stay home.
- Face coverings are required, regardless of vaccination status, per UO guidance.
- Sanitize your hands before you enter the galleries. Hand sanitizer stations are available.
- Maintain six feet of physical distance between you and other visitors or groups.
- Travel light. Lockers and racks are limited for backpacks, coats, and umbrellas.
- Food and drinks, including empty containers, are not allowed in the galleries. Drinking fountains are not available at this time.
- As a courtesy to others, silence your cell phones.
- Only pencils are allowed for note taking or sketching. We encourage you to bring a notebook to write on; do not use the walls or pedestals as writing surfaces.
- For the art's protection, stand two feet away from and do not touch the art. For your protection, do not lean on walls or display furniture. Do not gesture at the art with objects, such as pencils or phones.
- Still photography, taken without flash, for private, non-commercial use is permitted unless the artwork is marked with a "no photography" sign. Please refer to gallery signage or ask museum staff if you are unsure.
