- Journal of Visualized Experiments \(JOVE\): Neuroscience
JOVE is a visual journal that provides high-quality video demonstrations and detailed text protocols which facilitate scientific reproducibility and productivity.
- Kanopy
Offers streaming access to a large variety of documentary and feature films. Major subject areas include the arts, business and training, media and communication, natural sciences and social sciences. Kanopy is limited to UC students, faculty and staff. A DuckID is required for access both on and off campus. Videos are loaned for 1-3 years and must be renewed for continued access. That, some content in Kanopy may not be immediately accessible to UC users, videos can be purchased upon request for use in courses and in research.
- More help: How to request a Kanopy video
- PBS video collection
Documentary films and series covering history, science and technology, diversity studies, business, and current events.
- Sovieton on Film
Sourced from the British Film Institute (BFI), Sovieton on Film documents the communist world, from the Russian Revolution to the end of the Cold War. This unique collection of documentary films, feature films and newscasts reveals all aspects of life behind the Iron Curtain, as seen by filmmakers from the USSR, Vietnam, Cuba, China, East Germany, Eastern Europe and more. Providing a counterpoint to Western perceptions of communist states, and their actions, the films illustrate how socialist countries saw themselves, and the world around them during the major political and social events of the twentieth century. The footage was originally sourced from communist states, then reshot into English language for private distribution in Britain and the West.
- Swarth Digital Campus
Swarth Digital Campus provides streaming video access to feature films and documentaries.
