My Visual Story: Comics and Personal Storytelling Creative and Discussion Journal #3!

Prompts for November 14 th :
This Journal has two objectives: 1. Serve as a mid-term reflection on your academic goals (as you outlined in your Student Inventory), and 2. Serve as primer for thinking about your comic book presentations (Week 10 and online showcases).
There are two parts to consider for this Creative and Discussion Journal page (Part 2 is on the back).
Part 1: Reflecting on your academic and FIG goals:
1. Review your Student Inventory . Pay close attention to what you wrote in the section describing the "academic areas or skills you hope to improve here at the UO." How have you improved on these skills so far this fall term? What are barriers to improving these skills? How do you plan on developing these skills next term?
2. Now review what you wrote about the "two main learning goals you have for yourself in this course." What are specific ways you have worked on meeting these goals in the My Visual Story course? How do you plan on meeting these goals next term?	•

My Visual Story: Comics and Personal Storytelling Creative and Discussion Journal #3!

Part 2: For your comic book:
1. In one to two sentences: What is your main theme?
2. What was the most challenging part of the comic book process?
3. What was the most rewarding part of the comic book process?
4. What examples do you have that connect your comic book, and the process making it to what you learned in ENG 280 and ASIA 399?	